TEWKSBURY LEADS HIGSON AND DAVIS TO GOLD AMERICANS SET TWO WORLD RECORDS

PATRICIA YOUNG

BRISBANE—The Americans arrived full of bluff and bravado and proclaimed that they expected to win every event. The Australians had a young squad with only three of the 13 gold medal winners from the Commonwealth Games on the team. The average age of the team was just over 18 and the oldest was 21. Canada sent it's best but was relying on it's heavy hitters, Davis and Baumann, to propel them past Australia.

Four days later, when the water settled, the Americans had set two world records, but hadn't come close to their prediction of total domination. In fact any world records (except the 50 free) they set here or at their nationals were blown out of the water a week later at the European championships.

The Australians showed tremendous depth and had swimmers who just wouldn't quit. Their men's 4x200 freestyle relay team almost caught the Americans, but the Australians were hurt by the loss (defection?) of top ranked Robert Gleria to Italy, a country he holds dual citizenship in. They finished second in the total and gold medal count and had a crowd of impressive new faces break through.

Canada came to the meet having a realistic chance at seven gold medals and left, slightly shell shocked, with less than half that number. Alex Baumann's losses in the individual medleys cost Canada anticipated gold medals, but also showed the risk of having one or two swimmers shouldering the responsibility for the team's success.

It was at the finishes that the big races were lost. Mark Tewksbury, after a great win in the 100 backstroke, lost the 200 by .18 to Dan Veatch, USA, who came from behind to snag the win. Baumann lost a heartbreaker by .01 in the 200 I.M. to American David Wharton. Marcel Gery made a valiant charge at Craig Oppel, USA and Thomas Stachewicz, AUS, but came up short by 23/100. Needless to say none of this did much for team morale.

The Canadian attitude was summed by Chris Bowie after he had swum a lifetime best in the 400 freestyle. "I underestimated myself. It was hard, but not that hard. Maybe if I had believed in myself before the race I could have gone a little faster."

Isn't that what the coaches are suppose to do at a major international meet? Convince swimmers that they can go beyond themselves, that one of the three medals is theirs? The Australians were able to swim hard in the morning and even harder at night. They got performances out of untried swimmers. Why wasn't a first time national team member, like breaststroker Cam Grant, able to build on his races at Calgary instead of falling below those times? That is what the coaches travel there to do. To get swimmers doing things they have never done before.

But the news is not all black for Canadian swimming, with the majority of the team swimming faster than they did at the trials in Calgary.

The men's 4x100 free relay and the women's 4x200 free relay saw new national records. The men's 4x100 medley relay established a national and Commonwealth record. In fact two commonwealth and seven national records were set. The one flaw in this is that two of the individual records were Marcel Gery's and he was a key member of three relays. At this time Marcel's status as a Canadian citizen is still in limbo for the next Olympics.

Allison Higson and Guylaine Cloutier doubled up for a gold and silver in the 100 breaststroke and then Allison went on to win a silver in the 200 individual medley. Higson was not the only double medalist. Mark Tewksbury, Alex Baumann, Victor Davis and Jane Kerr (100 free and 200 I.M. bronze) came home with two medals each. Kevin Draxinger finished with a bronze behind Tewksbury in the 200 back. Tom Ponting did his best swim of the year and came up with a silver in the 200 butterfly.

The first medal for Canada came from Marcel Gery in the 200 free. The race was won by American Craig Oppel. Thomas Stachewicz, Australia, was second.

Gery had a good start and was sitting comfortably in third but fell off the pace after the first 50. Coming off the last turn Gery was fourth behind Martin Roberts, Australia. He had power left and in the last 30 metres clawed his way past Roberts, almost catching Stachewicz.

"I'm glad I broke 1:50 and have the Canadian record," said Gery. "I can improve on that time."

Mark Tewksbury won the 100 backstroke with a new Commonwealth record. His time of 55.89 ranks him number two in the world for 1987. "The world record is in sight now," he said.

Unfortunately for Tewksbury the glow of winning didn't last. On the third night he came so tantalizingly close to winning the 200 back, but Dan Veatch, USA, snatched it away.

Tewksbury swam an incredibly tough race. He relied on his early speed to get out in front. At the 150 he was firmly in control of the race, Veatch was second and Canada's Kevin Draxinger was fourth behind Scott Johnson, USA. With 25 metres left Tewksbury started to lose his lead to a charging Veatch. Despite swimming the best 200 of his life, Tewksbury lost 2:01.38 to 2:01.56. Draxinger snuck in for third with 2:03.54.

The women's 100 and 200 back was won by 16 year old Nicole Livingstone, Australia. She trounced her two American rivals, Etobicoke trained Kristen Linehan and Sue O'Brien, in the 100 with a Commonwealth record of 1:02.64. She then knocked two more Americans, Andrea Hayes and Beth Barr, out of contention in the 200 with another Commonwealth record of 2:11.84.

Canadian Lori Melien was sixth in the 100 with a lifetime best of 1:04.34.

Canada scooped a silver in the 200 butterfly courtesy of Tom Ponting. Stewart Melvin, USA, led off the blocks. Ponting was second until the final turn, where David Wilson, Australia caught him. Ponting didn't lose concentration, steamed past Wilson and almost tagged Stewart.

"I was out as planned," said Ponting, "but Stewart had that extra speed on me. 1:58 is a good psychological number to start next year with."

For the last few years American sprint whiz Matt Biondi and teammate Tom Jager have been duelling over the world best time for the 50 free. Biondi won at the American national championship, but Jager had a better record overseas. It seemed likely that the record would fall at this meet.

The swimmers exploded off the blocks and Jager was slightly behind Biondi. Andrew Baildon, Australia, swimming in his first international meet, was right on their tail and Vlastimil Cerny, Canada, who had qualified ahead of Baildon and was almost even with him.

When the time flashed on the scoreboard it was Jager in 22.32; a new world record. Biondi was second and 15 year old Baildon was third.

"It's something you dream about," said 22 year old Jager. "If you don't dream, you'll never get it. I made this race my prime goal."

Allison Higson won the 100 breaststroke in 1:09.92, over a second ahead of teammate Guylaine Cloutier (1:11.24). Higson had qualified fifth for the race, but didn't let swimming in an outside lane change her plan of attack.

Victor Davis repeated Higson's win by cruising to victory in the 100 breast, but couldn't dominate both distances. Davis, who's strength is the longer race, led for the first 50 metres and then relinquished the lead to American Steve Bentley (2:14.99). The best Davis could do was third with 2:18.27 behind Brett Beddle, USA.

"I don't think the meet was that bad for me," said Davis. "The 200 wasn't a great race, but I'm not going to let it get me down. It has only made me hungrier. I don't mind if people think I'm out of the picture, because that just gives me the advantage next year."

The upset of the meet was Baumann's 400 I.M. loss to American David Wharton. Wharton, who is 50% deaf, led the entire race and shattered Baumann's world record with a new mark of 4:16.12. Baumann finished third behind Rob Woodhouse of Australia.

"The last 200 was the best I had ever come back," said Baumann, "but my backstroke split was two seconds over what I normally do and that is the difference.

"I definitely haven't been doing the work. I can't kid myself. All I wanted to do here was go 4:18, which I did, but unfortunately that only got me a third. I hated to see the record go, but I'm glad I was in the race where it was broken."

Baumann was looking forward to the 200, but Wharton, like a jealous pirate, wouldn't let him near the gold. Baumann was behind Wharton and butterfly specialist Pablo Morales, USA, after the first leg. He swam through Wharton in the backstroke and was a hair behind Morales going into the final 50 of freestyle. Morales dropped away and Baumann had no one between him and the wall, that is until the last two metres. Baumann, who was breathing on his right didn't see Wharton come up on his left. Wharton must have smelled victory. He buried his head, drove to the wall and came up the winner by 1/100 of a second.

Baumann could accept the loss in the 400, but this must have been too much. If it was he never let anyone know. He turned, shook hands with Wharton and climbed out of the pool.

"I knew he was there, but I didn't know how close. I was just trying to get home as fast as I could," said Baumann. "It wasn't fast enough. I can't take anything away from Dave's race.

"I'm not sure if I'll retire or not. It will be a harder decision after a race like that."

"I knew I was close," said Wharton. "I wasn't sure if I could stay with Alex. I just gave everything I had left. All the hard work I did this past year paid off."

Australian coach Laurie Lawrence is the king of understatement. He is also Australia's premier cheerleader. The final night he whipped the crowd and his swimmers into near hysteria during the distance events by running up and down the deck waving his gold and green track suit over his head, screaming at his swimmers, "Race 'em. Race 'em. Get in there and race." But when asked about what is the key to motivating swimmers he demures, looks across the pool and says, "I don't know what the key is. I just hope they like to swim fast. I set them goals, realistic goals, and then ask them to go out after it." It might just be the way that he asks them that got both Julie McDonald and Michael McKenzie to swim outside themselves.

The 800 free was a shootout. American world record holder Janet Evans had already downed McDonald in the 400 free. She had also won the 400 I.M., but the strain of those races and the pressure of having been the first woman to have broken Tracey Wickham's nine year old record may have been too much for her.

McDonald, on the other hand, was rested and ready. As the race was about to begin Lawrence went on the warpath, trying to get the normally staid crowd to give McDonald some hometown support. He started running up and down the sides of the pool brandishing the gold and green of Australia above his head, screaming at each section of the stands. The crowd loved it, the Americans were completely infuriated and the other teams looked nervous. It may not have been entirely kosher but who wouldn't have secretly wanted a cheerleader like that. Even before the race started the air was charged.

It looked like Evans still had the form she had weeks earlier when she set the new world record. She turned first at the 100 in 1:00.79. McDonald was just behind her, followed by American Kim Brown and Australian Donna Procter.

It was at the 150 that Lawrence started to work his magic. As McDonald came off the wall the crowd began to roar. This pushed her past the churning American. Evans, who's tiny build belies her strength, has a straight arm, windmill turn over. Just as the crowd inspired McDonald it must have completely demoralized Evans.

By the 200 McDonald was ahead by the slightest of margins. With each turn she made the crowd would explode again. The noise filled the entire stadium. Evans continued to slip behind McDonald. Now the crowd was intent on seeing McDonald return the world record to Australia. She almost did it, being well under the old world record, but was .74 shy of Evans' new mark. Evans was almost ten seconds behind managing to finish just ahead of Donna Procter.

"All I wanted to do was to keep up with Janet in the early stages of the race," said McDonald. "I knew she would take it out hard.

"At the 200 I felt really good so I stepped it up I didn't know I was on world record pace, but I could hear the crowd and I saw Laurie."

"I think she can go faster than that," said Lawrence. "She swam well at Commonwealth Games and this is the first meet we've aimed at since then.

"She has what it takes to get the record. She just needs to be a little more relaxed in her technique and a bit faster in her turns. She could lose 4 or 5 kilos too. That is quite a handicap to carry in this race."

"Julie swam a great race," said an exhausted looking Evans. "I died. I've had a five week taper and that is too hard for me to hold. I'm just glad that I'm done."

The crowd was barely back in their seats when Lawrence went for an encore. Hoping it would work a second time, Lawrence was cheering and waving and getting the crowd ready for the 1500 free.

There is no love lost between Australian teammates Jason Plummer and Michael McKenzie. Plummer beat McKenzie in the 1500 by 1/100 at the Commonwealth Games. McKenzie has not forgotten or forgiven.

McKenzie had the crowd behind him and he didn't look back. He established his lead in the first 100 metres and kept control of the race. Half way through second place Plummer began to falter and American Dan Jorgensen swam through him, but was unable to get near McKenzie. Canada's Harry Taylor swam a lifetime best of 15:23.44 for fourth place.

The 4x100 medley relay team was the best Canada ever suited up for a race. With 100 metres left to swim and a 1.32 second lead on the Americans, Marcel Gery took off and swam the best freestyle leg any Canadian has ever swum. His blistering 49.63 was not fast enough and he looked up to see a grinning Matt Biondi in the next lane already eyeing the scoreboard.

"People say we don't have a relay team; all we've got is Matt Biondi," chortled one American. "Well that's all we need." ■

DUGGAN LEADS CANADIANS TO IMPRESSIVE TEAM PERFORMANCE

INDIANAPOLIS — "It was one of the best Canadian team performances in a long time," head coach Tom Johnson said after the conclusion of the tenth Pan American Games.

Canada's 'B' squad, turned in just over 60% best swims, either seasonal or lifetime, a measure of success rarely seen in recent teams.

According to Johnson, "They were expected to finish as the second team and aimed at having 50% best times."

Of the 21 swimmers on the team, all but one came home with one or more medals.

The most successful swimmer was breaststroker Keltie Duggan, with a gold in the 100 and a fourth place in the 200 of her specialty. Both times were lifetime bests. Unfortunately for Keltie, her feat was somewhat overshadowed when the Canadian media went completely overboard with Sally Gilbert's alleged doping incident.

It seems Sally took a cold decongestant capsule which contained a banned drug. After swimming on the 4x200 free relay, which got a bronze, Sally's drug test showed minute traces of a banned drug. She had received approval from the Canadian team's medical staff that it was 'safe' drug to take.

Eventually the case was dismissed and no formal charges were made. Sally and Anne-Marie Andersen, a member of the 4x200 relay, whose decongestant Gilbert took, were pulled from the 4x100 free relay. Sally did swim in the 100 fly afterwards finishing fourth with a lifetime best of 1:03.91.

PAN AM MEDAL TOTALS 1955-87

YEAR	Gold	Silver	Bronze	Total
1955	4	3	2	9
1959	-	4	1	5
1963	-	6	8	14
1967	3	10	13	26
1971	6	8	9	23
1975	1	12	11	24
1979	1	12	15	28
1983	2	6	11	19
1987	1	5	13	19

One of the most successful Canadians was Megan Holliday, a 15-year-old distance swimmer. She earned selection to the team in the closing minutes of the nationals where she placed fourth in the 800 free with 9:00.48 from her afternoon prelim swim. This earned her the last spot on the team.

At Indianapolis she finished third in both the 400 and 800 with improved times of 4:20.78 and 8:52.60.

Claude Lamy bettered the 50 free record for the third time this summer with his 23.30 (heat) finishing third in the final with 23.39. He added silvers as part of the medley and free sprint relays.

Breaststroker Darcy Wallingford was the most successful male with two individual bronze and improved times of 1:04.55 and 2:22.01. He got his third medal on the second place medley relay.

The most spectacular swimmer of the games was 16-year-old Silvia Poll, representing Costa Rica. A finalist at the 1986 World Championships (6th in the 200 free) she stunned everyone with her triple gold medal swims, 100-200 free and 100 back. She added silvers in the 50 free and 200 back and added three more medals in the three relays. Her eight medal total was the most by anyone.

Her improvement since 1986 makes her a solid threat for Seoul. Her most outstanding swims came on the relays. She led-off the medley with 1:01.86 giving her a tie for the fastest swimmer in 1987. She also anchored the 4x100 free in 55.52 and the 4x200 free with an amazing 1:58.36 to overtake the Canadian team and give her team a silver.

The startling 6-foot-2 blonde, of West German parents, moved to Costa Rica from Nicaragua some years ago and doesn't feel the need for American help in her Olympic preparation. With several scholarship offers, which she's turned down, she said, "I'm satisfied with my progression. Maybe the Americans should come to Costa Rica if they want to improve." Poll's winning times were faster than the winning times at the US Nationals in July,.

Top male was American trained Anthony Nesty, representing Surinam. His 53.89 in the 100 fly will rank him fourth in the world this year. He'll be enrolling at the University of Florida after attending high school in Jacksonville,Fla.

The Americans won 27 events out of 32, which is the usual level of their domination. Latin American swimmers showed little improvement since 1983. The swimming events had just over 250 competitors with several events having fewer than eight entries, putting in doubt the viability of future meets. ■

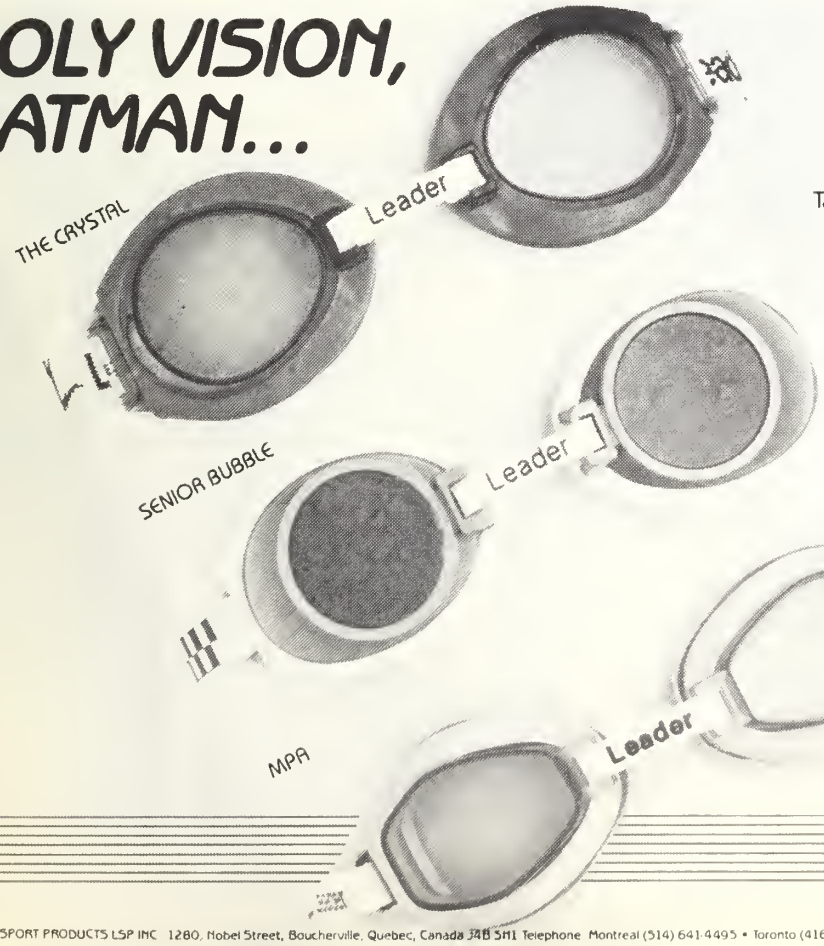
HOLY VISION, BATMAN...

IT'S LEADER!



Take a gasp at Leader's new line of world-class goggles: The CRYSTAL, SENIOR BUBBLE, and MPA. These are mean designs that look good, and stay on tight. Why? Because each model is armed with the notorious "poly-seal". A protective cloak against salt and chlorine. And they're tough too – a secret poly-carbonate formula that stands up to any avenger.

"Ok, Batman, I think I get the picture. This is some dynamic trio."

On dry land Walter and Donna Wu look like normal kids. But put them in the water and they turn into a couple of dolphins. British Columbia's Walter and Donna have made quite a splash in swimming circles thanks, in a small part, to the Esso Swim Canada Program. At Imperial Oil, we're proud to help fund swimming programs nationwide for people of all ages. In real human terms, that makes life a little better for us all.

You make us better.

THE SPEEDO PAPERSUIT...

First time out, a new world best.

Bonn, West Germany (February 7, 1987)

Victor Davis, world champion, puts on Speedo's new PaperSuit and lowers his own world best 200M breaststroke record by almost a full second to a blistering 2:08.82.

The Speedo PaperSuit. A special Lycra* weave that's about as thin as the paper you're holding, without sacrificing durability.

This is an elite suit. One that world class swimmers bring to the blocks when everything is on the line.
